A 1.13 : Customer Service Standards

Policy:

The goal of the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act, 2005 (the “Act”) is to create a more accessible Ontario, by identifying, and to the extent possible, preventing, and eliminating barriers experienced by persons with a disability.

The Accessibility Standards for Customer Service (“the Standards”) are part of the broader Integrated Accessibility Standards Regulation. The Standards have been established under the Act to ensure services and facilities are, where at all possible, equally accessible to every member of the public.

REGULATION: AODA	ORCA STANDARD: 3.11	EFFECTIVE DATE:
REVISED DATE: Sept 2020	REVIEWED DATE: Sept 2020	PAGE: 3 of 14

Core Principles of the Policy

We endeavor to ensure that the Policy and related practices, policies and procedures are consistent with the following four (4) core principles:

- i. Dignity - Persons with a disability are as deserving of quality service as any other person and should be treated in a manner consistent with this fact.
- ii. Equality of Opportunity - Persons with a disability should be given an opportunity equal to that given to others to obtain, use and benefit from our services and facilities.
- iii. Integration - Wherever possible, persons with a disability should benefit from our services and facilities in the same place and in the same or similar manner as any other person. In circumstances where integration does not serve the needs of the person with a disability, services and facilities will, to the extent possible, be provided in another way that takes into account the person’s individual needs.
- iv. Independence – Services and facilities should, where possible, be provided in a way that respects the independence of persons with a disability. To this end, we will be willing to assist but will not do so without first attempting to get the permission of the person with a disability.

Human Rights Code & AODA: Duty to Accommodate

The AODA and the Ontario Human Rights Code (the Code) both use the same definition of disability, but they also have some important differences. Under the Code, when a person with a disability needs accommodation, there is duty to accommodate to the point of undue hardship. This means organizations may need to provide an individualized response to an accommodation request.

Accommodation means not denying people jobs or services in the first place if they can be accommodated to the point of undue hardship, which means organization may need to make changes to their policies, practices and staff training so that discrimination does not occur.

The Code protects people from discrimination and harassment because of past, present or perceived disabilities. Disabilities themselves are not a barrier, but barriers exist that exclude people with disabilities. These include physical, information and communication, systemic or attitudinal barriers.

- Physical barriers include things like providing steps but no ramps or elevators

POLICY NO: A 1.13	POLICY NAME: Customer Service Standards
REGULATION: AODA	ORCA STANDARD: 3.11	EFFECTIVE DATE:
REVISED DATE: Sept 2020	REVIEWED DATE: Sept 2020	PAGE: 4 of 14

- Information and communication barriers can make it difficult for people to receive or give information
- Systemic barrier can result from stereotypes or established practices, such as inflexible hours that don't coordinate with para-transit bus schedule
- Attitudinal barriers can be the biggest barrier of all by some organizations having a tendency to see people with disabilities as less worthy and underestimating their potential

Organizations should try to identify and remove barriers before problems arise instead of waiting to answer individual accommodation requests or complaints.

Avoid creating barriers altogether through inclusive planning and design. See section on Design of Public Spaces standards below.

Resident Rights under Human Rights Code

In addition to obligations arising under the AODA, residents in your retirement home may also have rights under the Human Rights Code. These obligations under the Human Rights Code include:

- A retirement residence cannot refuse to let someone move into the home simply because they have a disability, physical or mental, including depression.
- A retirement home may have a duty to accommodate special needs arising from a disability, unless doing so would cause 'undue hardship' (as defined by the Human Right Code) for the home.
- There may be legal requirements under the Human Rights Code about when you can request or demand additional medical information such as a psychiatric examination.

Your organization will have policies and processes outlining the procedures for resident admissions.

Please note, the information in this policy is provided for general information purposes and does not constitute legal advice. We suggest you obtain legal advice regarding your own specific circumstances.

- a) a Support Person is necessary to protect the health or safety of the person with a disability or the health or safety of others on the premises; and
- b) there is no other reasonable way to protect the health or safety of the person with a disability and the health or safety of others on the premises.

It also includes service counters, fixed waiting lines and waiting areas with fixed seating. Responsibility for compliance falls onto the owner of this space, or the person who leases the space and who has the authority to make design decisions. Where there are physical accessibility issues in existing buildings that prevent accessing goods or services, the Customer service standard under the AODA require organizations to work with people with disabilities so they may receive accessible customer service. If you are the person who falls into this category, it is strongly recommended you refer to the link to review your responsibilities under the AODA – <http://www.ontario.ca/page/accessibility-laws>.

Accessible Parking

There are accessibility requirements under DOPS which apply to both on-street parking and off-street parking. Businesses and non-profit organizations have requirements to meet related to off-street parking only. Normally, the accessibility requirement for off-street parking falls under the municipality.

Off-street parking includes parking lots and structures intended for the temporary parking of vehicles by the public. This includes visitor parking at your communities. If you are, or have plans to add to your current parking lot, or reconstruct the lot entirely, the requirements under the standard set the minimum number of accessible parking spaces required, the size of the parking spaces, access aisles and signage requirements. These requirements are in place to ensure the needs are met for the growing number of accessible parking permit holders.

The accessibility standard provides minimum standards and does not prevent organizations from exceeding them to meet their own residents’ needs. For example, the minimum width of a standard parking space, Type B, is about 7.87 feet. Communities can choose to comply with this width, or create wider spaces to accommodate residents and/or visitors that need the extra space to feel safe when exiting their vehicle. Organizations are required to have both Type A accessible parking spaces, that are clearly identified with a ‘Van Accessible’ sign, and a Type B parking space. Anyone with a valid accessible parking permit can park in either of these accessible parking spaces.

Service in Public Spaces

If your retirement community has service counters in places such as reception, dining rooms or laundry rooms, there are regulations that need to be followed to ensure these services are available to all residents in your community. There must be at least one accessible service counter for each service that accommodates people with a mobility aid such as a wheelchair or scooter.

You need to make all service counters accessible if your organization has a single wait line for all services. All accessible service counters need to be clearly marked.

The fixed queuing line which may or may not lead to a service counter or other services must be wide enough to allow passage of a mobility aid and/or use of mobility devices, offer enough space for turning if the queuing line changes direction; and it must be detectable by someone using a cane for navigation.

The height of the counter must be usable for a person seated in a mobility aid with enough knee space so a forward approach can be used. The floor or ground around the accessible counter must be cleared enough with no obstructions for the person with a mobility aid to use the counter.

If there is a waiting area with fixed seated on your premises, three percent of the seating must be designed as accessible seating. There must be at least one accessible seat. This means you must leave room for people who use a mobility aid, such as a wheelchair or scooter to wait.

Recreational Trails

If your community has a public recreational trail, there are accessibility standards to ensure everyone can enjoy the natural space around your community. This doesn't apply to wilderness trails, back-country trails and portage routes, but does include multi-use trails such as a walking path that turns into a snowmobile trail in the winter.

When constructing a new recreational pathway, the organization must consult with the public including people with disabilities. When consulting, certain design elements must be addressed that might be part of the trail such as the slope, ramps that might be needed, rest areas, passing areas, viewing areas and amenities.

Remember, you don't need to update your existing recreational trails. This accessibility standard only applies if you are constructing a new recreational trail or performing major renovations to an existing recreational trail.

Beach Access Routes

If your retirement community offers beach access, there are accessibility standards that apply. Beach access routes are public routes that provide access from off-street parking facilities, recreational trails, exterior paths of travel and amenities. These routes can be permanent or temporary and have specific technical requirements which are outlined in the standard. Temporary beach access routes can be removed and stored away during the off-season months. These requirements include minimum clear width and height, maximum running slope ratio, surface opening restrictions, minimum clear width at entrance, firm and stable surface, minimum cross slope for drainage and maximum cross slope and bevel ratios for man- made surfaces. You do not need to consult when constructing a beach access route, but you do need to comply with the requirement.

Outdoor Public Use Eating Areas

If your organization has 50 or more employees and your community provides outdoor eating areas, accessible regulations outline the requirements that must be met to be compliant. For example, if you provide a picnic area for your residents and their families, the requirement sets the number of tables, the design of the eating area and the surface area. If you currently have an eating area and are not planning a renovation to this area, you do not need to change the area to comply. Just remember, once you renovate this area, you will need to comply with the accessibility standards.

Go to https://gaates.org/DOPS/section\_2\_4\_0.php for more technical information regarding outdoor public use eating areas including some best practices considerations.

Exterior Paths of Travel

Promoting a healthy lifestyle with residents is a key component in care. Most retirement communities offer public pathways around the community for residents, families and staff to use. If your retirement home has 50 or more employees, the Accessible Standard for the Design of Public Spaces standard states surfaces of exterior paths of travel must be firm, stable and slip-resistant. Firm surfaces resist dents when walked or wheeled on and stable surfaces return to their original condition once the pressure has been removed. Sidewalks and walkways should include drainage grates that won't allow canes, wheelchairs or footwear to get caught. You must also include rest areas and directional signage. There may be areas along the exterior path of your home that is accessible to the public that have multiple changes in surface levels. For example, when the grading of the pathway that leads to the bus stop is steep due to the ground being unlevel, or have stairs which are not to the correct width, residents and/or visitors with stamina issues may have issues with going up and/or down these pathways. There are regulations for changes in levels along sidewalks and walkways to ensure the safety of your residents and visitors.

Overhead barriers or objects should be relocated or also contain a barrier around the object which will benefit all users. This may include any hanging flower baskets, flowerbeds with overgrown plants or directional signs. There are many more technical requirements for exterior pathways including ramps, curbs, stairs and railings.

Ensuring the communities exterior path meets the requirements under the accessibility standard, provides your residents and their families with a safe path to enjoy a leisurely walk or exercise, while Ensuring their safety.

Outdoor Play Places

If your retirement home has 50 or more employees and offers an outdoor play area for residents to enjoy with their families when they visit, there are accessibility requirements that apply to this space. This includes play equipment and structures such as slides, swing, splash pads, etcetera; and natural features such as logs, rocks, sand or water intended for play.

Ensuing your outdoor play space is compliant with the accessibility standard for the Design of Public Spaces promotes enhanced play experiences for residents and their families.

Maintenance

To ensure an accessible environment is kept safe and usable and to ensure existing public spaces are in good working order, communities should perform routine maintenance on these areas. Poor maintenance can cause accessibility barriers for people with disabilities. This requirement applies to all retirement homes in the non-profit or business sector with 50 or more employees.

Your organization must have a multi-year accessibility plan under the Integrated Accessibility Standards Regulation, or IASR. These plans will document procedures for preventative and emergency maintenance of accessible public spaces required by the standard. Within these plans, there must be documented procedures for what to do when the accessibility elements are not available, and how you plan to maintain public spaces.

You can learn more about the maintaining accessible public spaces by going to https://gaates.org/DOPS/section\_3\_0\_0.php.
